STORM ADVANCES ALONG ATLANTIC COAST

HIGH WIND, SEAS REACH TO GEORGIA

Tropical Hurricane Leaves Damage and Destruction in Its Wake

BULLETIN
Miami, Fla. (AP)—Eight persons are known to have been killed by the tropical hurricane that struck Nassau Monday, according to the first direct report on storm fatalities received by the Miami Daily News. The message was received by the Tropical Radio Telegraph company from the Munamar, lying at anchor off Nassau.

Property damage in Nassau alone will reach $4,000,000 or $5,000,000, Captain McDonald estimated. No reports have been received from the outlying islands, his message adds.

Savannah, Ga. (AP)—High seas and wind of increasing intensity along the Georgia coast early Thursday presaged the advent of the tropical hurricane which, thundering up the Florida east coast since Monday, has left damage and destruction to shipping, property, communication lines and crops which may run into millions of dollars.

Weather bureau reports late Wednesday night placed the storm center near the Georgia coast, about fifty miles north of Jacksonville, Fla.

Heavy seas, rolling in on the highest tides of several years, pounded at the sea islands along the lower Georgia and upper Florida coast line.

Sudden squalls and torrential rains deluged Savannah with five inches of rain Wednesday night. The encampment of the 121st Georgia Infantry was moved from Tybee Island at Fort Screven when rain flooded the island encampment.

Trees were uprooted on St. Simon's Island and the foundation of several cottages were wrecked.

FLORIDA TAKES TOLL
Meanwhile Florida took toll of the destruction caused by the three day ravages of the hurricane.

Greatest property damage was reported at Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, where shipping, buildings and a bridge across Lake Worth were wrecked, with an estimated property loss of more than $1,000,000. Approximately forty small yachts and houseboats were reported wrecked when a pier at a fashionable yacht club gave way before the pounding waves. Hotels and resorts were flooded.

A radio message to St. Augustine reported rescue of the Italian steamship Ansaldo San Giorgetto Soundo which rode out the storm since Monday. The Ansaldo was taken in tow by the S. S. West Barlow, and is proceeding to Jacksonville. Twenty-four men were aboard the ship in addition to the captain and three passengers.

Damage estimated at $100,000 was reported at Miami, principally to the Avocado pear crop. One man was killed in Sanford, Fla., when a tree crashed into the house and crushed the cot on which he was lying. No word has been received from the small motor craft Zuleta which left Miami Sunday for Bimini in the Bahamas with 25 passengers aboard.

DESCRIBES STORM
Miami, Fla. (AP)—The havoc wrought by the tropical hurricane at Bimini was described in the Miami News in an interview on the arrival here of the storm battered yacht Zuleta II. Her commander, Captain G. F. Grey, and Captain R. M. Hutchins described that practically all structures on the island were demolished. The Zuleta limped into port today with 17 passengers on board. None of them was reported badly injured from being buffeted by the 100 mile an hour wind.

BANDIT HOLDS UP COUPLE NEAR MADISON

Madison (AP)—Holding up a couple driving on a lonely road near here Wednesday night, a second bandit has made his debut using the same methods as a holdup man who has terrorized motorists on Madison's suburban roads for several months. Sheriff Daggett has offered a personal reward of $100 for arrest and conviction of either man.

The robber appeared from a clump of bushes at the roadside, brandishing a gun, and stopped V. H. Kohlman and companion. Seizing only 80 cents and overloading $15 in a bill fold, the bandit took the car and disappeared.

LOSES JOB

Senator Don Juan Riancho Gavarrón, Spain's envoy to the U. S. since 1899, and dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, has been recalled.

LENROOT SHOWS MORE STRENGTH

Progressives Deserting Blaine in Senatorial Campaign

Milwaukee (AP)—Despite a smoke screen designed to discourage supporters of Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, a survey of the state shows the organization intact and indicates that the senior senator will get a large vote among anti-Blaine progressives, declared a statement issued today by H. A. Weil.

Mr. Weil is chairman of the executive committee of the Lenroters, state nominating organization, predicted the nomination of Senator Lenroot. "If those who believe in his cause go to the polls on primary day."

A smokescreen of propaganda designed to "smother the candidacy of Senator Lenroot," Mr. Weil asserted, had been thrown out by the "Blaine Madison ring." The Lenroot head said that as a result expressions of doubt that Senator Lenroot could be elected came to him three weeks ago when the campaign opened.

"Senator Lenroot is going before the voters of Wisconsin with a record of achievement that speaks for itself," Mr. Weil continued. "Blaine goes before the people today with only one argument in behalf of his candidacy—the fact that he is the LaFollette Progressive candidate."

TEXAS PASTOR IS INDICTED FOR MURDER

Ft. Worth, Texas (AP)—The Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of First Baptist church and nationally known fundamentalist, was indicted Thursday by the Tarrant co. grand jury for the murder of D. E. Chipps, lumberman, in the church office July 16.

Mayor H. C. Meacham, Chipps' friend, was called as a witness just before the indictment was returned after two weeks of investigation.

Nearly two score witnesses, the larger part of them members of Dr. Norris' church, appeared before the grand jury. Other witnesses on whose testimony the indictment was returned included the ambulance driver and city police officers and detectives. The 14-year old "mystery witness," who disappeared after the slaying and whose name has been withheld by the district attorney, was not called, although it was stated he may be a state's witness at the trial.

MRS. JACOB BAUER TRANSFERS 4 MILLION

Chicago (AP)—The LaSalle estate, to which she came as a stenographer in her teens, recorded Thursday the transfer of four million dollars worth of securities, whose sale virtually writes final to the business career of Mrs. Jacob Bauer.

Mrs. Bauer, a leader in Chicago society, recently ran for congress on a wet platform.

The four million in bonds is a minority share in the Liquid Carbonic Co., an enterprise which began 18 years ago with an investment of $75,000 long before the discovery that Americans liked "fizz" drinks made the soda fountain a national institution.

FIGURES ARE MOUNTING TO MILLION MARK

Probe Reports of Further Contributions by Utilities Executive

Chicago, Ill. (AP)—Disclosed expenditures in Illinois bitterly contested primary in April had mounted Thursday almost the $1,000,000 mark.

Of the total of $985,365.47 thus far revealed before the senate campaign funds committee, $606,164.23 was spent directly in the Republican senatorial contest which Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission won from Senator William B. McKinley. Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities executive, is known to have contributed $123,735.19 to the campaign, including $125,000 directly to Col. Smith's organization.

Having developed these contributions by Insull, Chairman Reed has sought to emphasize through several witnesses the control which the commerce commission, of which Smith still is chairman, exercises over public utilities in which Insull has large holdings.

The Chicago power magnate had been notified to appear again Thursday before the committee to give his decision as to whether he would tell of the campaign contributions which he made other than those to the Smith fund and that of George E. Brennan, who won the Democratic senatorial fight.

Since Insull's first appearance at the opening of the investigation Monday the committee has received testimony that the donated $10,000 to the Crowe-Barrett group and $10,000 to the Densen faction which fought for control of Cook-co. in the primary.

Senator Reed wants to find out whether the sum total of Insull's gifts for political purposes has been brought to light.

In addition to the $10,000 given by Insull, Charles V. Barrett, treasurer of the Crowe-Barrett group, told the committee that John Hertz, president of the Yellow Cab Co., gave $5,000 and Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the shipping board, $2,500.

With a long list of witnesses either summoned or in prospect, it is now certain the inquiry will be extended at least well into next week. Since both Chairman Reed and Senator LaFollette, Republican Wisconsin, are obliged to leave Chicago over the weekend, the inquiry probably will be adjourned from Friday to next Tuesday.

CHALLENGES AUTHORITY

Chicago (AP)—Flatly refusing to answer questions Thursday before the senate campaign funds committee, Thomas W. Cunningham of Philadelphia was advised that he would be cited to the senate for contempt.

Acting on advice of his counsel, Ben Golder, Cunningham refused to respond to any inquiries as to the source of a $50,000 contribution he made to the campaign fund of William S. Vare.

Before that Golder had challenged the right of the committee to go into the Pennsylvania primary at all, declaring that this was a matter "for the commonwealth of Pennsylvania to deal with."

With Cunningham's persistent refusal to respond to questions, Chairman Reed said he would call for a subpoena.

TRAIN ROBBERS GET $65,000 IN EAST

Salisbury, Mass. (AP)—Train robbers obtained $65,000 in cash from the baggage master of a Boston and Maine train at the Salisbury Point station Thursday. The money had been sent by the Federal Reserve bank in Boston to the Powow River National Bank of Amesbury.

FRENCH DESERTER IS DENIED APPEAL

Bellevue, Ky. (AP)—The appeal of Bennett J. Doty of Memphis, Tenn., from a sentence of eight years in prison for desertion from the French Foreign Legion, Thursday was rejected unanimously by a higher military court.

Mexican Catholics Gird For Service Suspension

Mexico City (AP)—Catholic churches will be open to 10 p. m. tonight the remainder of the week. The daylight hours have proved insufficient to accommodate worshippers who are crowding the churches in anticipation of the suspension on Sunday of ceremonies conducted by priests. The suspension has been ordered by the church as a protest against the government's religious regulations.

Saturday has been proclaimed a day of prayer and penitence for Mexican Catholics—although for all practical purposes every day has been such for a fortnight.

It is expected that clashes will be averted Sunday by reason of the decision of the Catholic authorities to refuse to sanction any counter demonstration to the parades of the regional confederation of labor. These parades are planned as evidence of labor's support of the government's religious policy.

Unless entirely unforeseen conditions arise all the churches will remain open after Sunday, although no priests will function. Worshippers will be able to enter at all times.

Worshippers will congregate and read from their prayer books as though the priest was before the altar saying mass. A layman will lead the worshippers in the rosary.

A plea for a change in the government's religious policy is contained in a letter sent to Senora Calles, who is a staunch Catholic and wife of the president of the Republic, on behalf of a Catholic woman's organization known as Pro Patria. The government is continuing its investigation of the National League for the Defense of Religious Liberty, some officers of which have been arrested on charges that the league's economic boycott manifesto incited the people to disorder.

The federation announced that it will not permit the proposed economic boycott of the league in defense of religious liberty to cause any federation worker to lose his job or to have his wages cut.

The federation's statement says such a boycott would create a serious economic situation and call for the dismissal of many workers.

The statement does not explain the methods the federation proposes, but it is presumed strikes are contemplated.

Uncertainty prevails everywhere as to how extensively the boycott will develop. Dispatches from Tampico say that the theatres are virtually deserted because the people are abandoning entertainments as part of the boycott plan, although the movement is not supposed to become effective until next Sunday.

PAGE AND HADFIELD SURVIVE GOLF MEET

Milwaukee (AP)—Dorothy Page of Madison and Frances Hadfield of the Blue Mound club, Milwaukee, will meet in the semi-finals of the upper half of the Wisconsin women's state golf tournament as the result of Thursday's play. Miss Page defeated Mrs. G. C. Russell of the Milwaukee country club Thursday and Miss Hadfield disposed of Helen Johnston.

Miss Page disposed of Mrs. Russell by the overwhelming count of 9 and 7 and Miss Hadfield won by almost as large a count 8 and 7.

In the lower half, Mrs. G. E. Cleophas of Beloit and Miss Jean Cannon of Milwaukee became semi-finalists. Mrs. Cleophas won when she scored eight three on the thirteenth, after being two down to her opponent.

Miss Groblin to that point had been playing her best game and scored a birdie four, but the eagle so disconcerted her that she lost the succeeding three holes, coming in 2 down.

Miss Cannon defeated Mrs. E. J. B. Schubring of Madison, 3 and 1 to go into the semifinals.

Launch Double Quiz In Milwaukee Train Wreck

Milwaukee (AP)—A double investigation will be launched Thursday to determine blame for the accident Wednesday night which brought death to two persons and injuries to others when a Northwestern train crashed into a load of workmen returning to their homes. Both the coroner's office and the railroad planned a thorough study of what was considered Milwaukee's worst grade crossing accident of recent years.

The dead are William Jones, Negro, and an unidentified negro. Two of the injured, also colored, are in the county hospital with injuries regarded as critical. Of the 13 persons in the bus, only the driver, Edward Hacker, escaped injury.

Witnesses reported that the bus drove slowly on to the tracks as the

CAL SHOWS HE IS SPOKESMAN FOR AMERICA

President, Not Borah, Will Outline Foreign Policy of U. S.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1926, By Post Pub. Co.

Paul Smith's, N. Y.—President Coolidge has in effect advised the whole world that the chief executive and not the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee is the spokesman for the United States government in matters of foreign policy.

This is the interpretation which must be placed on the extraordinary session which the president had with newspaper correspondents here Tuesday.

As usual the exact words of the president were not given out for publication, though some of the newspapermen thought the utterance of such international importance that they asked specifically if the president could be broken and the impromptu remarks made public.

The request was declined and it was assumed that Mr. Coolidge did not wish to dignify the recent hostile demonstration against tourists by anything so formal as a statement.

For the whole subject of good relations with European people was outlined, not only the necessity for circumspect behavior on the part of tourists in foreign lands but the suppression of irresponsible utterances and criticisms, on both sides of the Atlantic.

DIDN'T MENTION BORAH
No mention was made of the statement made last week by Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee in which he spoke of the utterances of Winston Churchill of Great Britain as insulting to the United States. But since the only criticism emanating from persons in official life have come from Secretary Mellon and Mr. Borah, the former arguing temperately on some difference of opinion over the record of expenditures on war debts and the latter answering Mr. Churchill's statements with an utterance full of sarcasm, there was no doubt left here as to who was being chided.

The president has always endeavored to maintain the friendliest possible relations with Senator Borah and this is one reason why he did not grow more specific in his observations to the correspondents. For there was a danger that unless something was given out officially by the president, the British people would take Mr. Borah's caustic statement as reflecting the attitude of the government of the United States. It is even possible that the British government pointedly asked that question through diplomatic channels and that the president's informal remarks to the correspondents were not as casual as they appeared.

"SCARFACE" CAPONE FREED AT CHICAGO

Chicago (AP)—Alphonse "Scarface" Capone, underworld overlord in Cicero and other western suburbs, who the authorities had professed to have sought up and down the country, was freed Thursday of the charge that he murdered Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggan, who was slain with two other men in a machine gun assassination last April 27.

Chief Justice Thomas Lynch of the criminal court dismissed the murder warrant after first Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman told the court the state did not have evidence.

Capone surrendered Wednesday.

8 REPORTED KILLED IN BELGRADE FIGHT

Belgrade, Yugo Slavia (AP)—Intense excitement has been aroused here by a report that eight villagers were killed and 40 wounded in a fight with gendarmes seeking to arrest a Bulgarian named Bolicko, alleged to be the leader of an organized band of irregulars.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—Many passengers were lost when the schooner Francis, bound for Peaceful and Macoris, bound for the Windward Islands, were sunk off Saona Island in a storm. Fifty-four bodies have been washed ashore at Saona.

MUST MAKE ALLOWANCES

In other words it was made clear that allowances must be made for the state of mind of peoples who are working desperately to overcome handicaps and burdens left by the war. Some day, if the utterance is ever made public, it will go down in history as one of the most tolerant and broad-gauged statements made since the war, and more than one correspondent regretted that the exact words could not be read.

Europe that in the White House is a man full of sympathy and understanding who need not be shocked into comprehension by parades of protests and editorials charging America with shyness tactics.

The president feels that the debt settlements are a matter of history now and that no good can come by provoking debate or controversy over them. He does not minimize the difficulties America will have in paying America, but after all a 62 year period has been given in which to make payments and the American people can be depended upon through congress to make whatever adjustments should be necessary if there should be a default on reparations and an economic crash. The point is that no private understanding to that effect was made either in the diplomatic correspondence preceding the final settlements or in the conversation of the negotiators.

COMING HOME?

Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, widow of the slain rector of St. John Episcopal church in New Brunswick, was in the county jail Thursday held without bail, accused of the murder four years ago of her husband and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church sexton and singer in the choir.

HOLD WOMAN FOR 4-YEAR OLD MURDER

Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, widow of the slain rector of St. John Episcopal church in New Brunswick, was in the county jail Thursday held without bail, accused of the murder four years ago of her husband and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church sexton and singer in the choir.

Mrs. Hall was arrested late Wednesday night at her home. She spent most of the night in a reception room on the first floor in the rear of the jail. Mrs. Edward Carpenter, her cousin, and Russell E. Watson, attorney, were with her. Mrs. Hall sat quietly but Mrs. Carpenter was the jail nervously most of the night. Mrs. Hall, branded her arrest as ridiculous, but would say nothing more. Her cousin and attorney refused to talk. Nothing was forthcoming from the authorities to explain what new evidence in the mystery had brought about the arrest.

Two women, charged separately with the murder of Mr. Hall and his pretty young woman companion, were sworn out Wednesday. Investigation of the case, abandoned nearly four years ago, was renewed several weeks ago because of an annulment suit filed by Arthur S. Riehl.

Riehl charged that his wife, former Louise Giest, who had been a maid in the Hall household, had deceived him as to her past relationships with Mr. Hall before he married her in 1924. In an unsworn statement Riehl said his wife had received $5,000 for silence in connection with the murder.

FIND BODIES IN ORCHARD

The bodies of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found Sept. 16, 1922, in an abandoned orchard near New Brunswick. The bodies had been shot with a pistol, and their clothes neatly arranged as they lay side by side.

A nearby vacant house was found to be completely furnished and showed signs of recent life. Love letters of the dead pair were found and published. Acquaintances declared that Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills contemplated sloping to Japan. Indications were they had been in embittered quarrels. Authorities investigated one theory that they had been killed by a jealous woman.

Mrs. Hall sailed for Europe in Feb. 1923, and returned more than a year later.

Upon her return she lived quietly in her New Brunswick home until her arrest. Riehl's statement two weeks ago that caused reopening of the investigation said "Look (Louise Giest) was in the confidence of Dr. Hall and referred to him as 'my old buddy.' She said that in 1922 Mr. and Mrs. Hall were not on good terms and respondent carried messages between them and the Dr. Hall used to entertain friends at the house known as Phillips' Farm and that she herself had visited this house with Dr. Hall alone."

RECEIVED HUSH MONEY
"She said that Sept. 14, 1922, Dr. Hall left his home, taking a large sum of money with him and telling her to say to Mrs. Hall he would be gone for a couple of days but she knew he intended to slope with Mrs. Mills. Mrs. Hall was at the time lying down in her room with a headache. About 10 or 11 o'clock that night Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall, and one Willie Stevens (brother of Mrs. Hall, known to be mentally deficient) were driven in Dr. Hall's other automobile to Phillips Farm by Peter Tumulty, the chauffeur. (This was 36 hours before the bodies were found under a crab apple tree in the orchard). Respondent told your petitioner that he had gotten $5,000 for her part in the matter, and for keeping quiet about it."

SEARCH MINE FOR MISSING WORKMAN

Hancock, Mich. (AP)—Rescue crews Thursday were exploring the workings of the Quincy mine, a mile and a half from the surface, to find Frank Tinetti, 50-year-old miner who has been missing since Wednesday afternoon when the "air blast" on localized earthquake damaged part of the mine in which he was at work.

Eight men who were with Tinetti made their way to safety although the passage way was blocked by fallen rock.

It is believed Tinetti was entombed or killed. A check of the employees who were known to have been in the mine revealed that he is only one missing.

42 ARE NAMED IN CHICAGO VOTE FRAUD

Chicago (AP)—True bills, naming 42 persons and raising the number of persons charged with vote frauds and various irregularities in the April primaries to 151, were voted Thursday by the special grand jury.

A number of those named are women. Thirty-eight judges and clerks and three ward workers were charged with misconduct.

ZIMMERMAN RAPS "MADISON RING"

Assails Political Leaders Who Seek Control of State Politics

Elkhorn (AP)—Fred Zimmerman, secretary of state, and Progressive candidate for nomination as governor on the Republican ticket, attacked what he termed the Madison ring in a talk here Wednesday.

"If you doubt the existence of a Madison ring," said Mr. Zimmerman, "consider this fact: Madison now has a United States Senator; it has a candidate for lieutenant governor and a candidate for state treasurer. Your city would surely be accused of having a ring if it had four out of the total candidates from the whole county."

Milwaukee, which is ten times larger than Madison, would be bitterly accused of having a ring if it had four or five candidates on the state ticket."

Mr. Zimmerman assailed political leaders who desire to control the politics of the state from personal greed and the desire for political power. "Payne, Babcock and Bone Keys were economic bosses," he said. "Either type of boss, whether economic or political, denies the people the right of government, and Bob La Follette in his first great act at bringing the government back to the people provided for the primary election law."

The candidate in conclusion discussed the primary election law, declaring that he favored it in the original form as it was passed by La Follette.

"She further said that certain county officials of Middlesex co. were always taken care of for preventing any one from breaking the case."

In the earlier investigation of the case it was shown that Mrs. Hall had had a quarrel with Miss Giest, who was among the witnesses called before the grand jury.

In an interview Nov. 1, 1922, the only one she ever gave in the case, Mrs. Hall declared she still believed her husband had been true and loyal and that she had no suspicions even of over friendliness between her husband and Mrs. Mills.

MINISTERS END SUMMER SCHOOL AT COLLEGE HERE

Dean Dixon Says School Is
One of Most Successful
Ever Held

"We especially appreciate the generous use of the college and its facilities during our session here the past two weeks. We close one of the most successful sessions we have ever known and we are grateful to the officers of Lawrence college for its use." Dr. E. C. Dixon of LaCrosse, dean of the annual summer school for Methodist ministers, said at the close of the school which has been in session at Lawrence college the past two weeks.

An informal gathering of teachers and students was held at Ormsby hall Wednesday evening. Entertainment was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Vincent who have been in chautauqua and concert work for several years. Mr. Vincent is a chautauqua lecturer and he gave a lecture on "The Chautauqua" with drawings. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent are accomplished singers and masters of several musical instruments. Mr. Vincent is attending the summer school.

Examinations started Wednesday and will continue until Friday when the students and teachers will leave for their homes. Dr. Dixon was assisted in his work by a staff of ten teachers.

The largest enrollment in several years was reported this year, with 40 students attending the daily classes. Only new ministers who are beginning their first years work in Methodist parishes in the West Wisconsin and Wisconsin conferences are admitted to the school. Ten students entered the school this year and seven preachers will receive diplomas. All Methodist ministers must attend for four years before they are eligible for ordination as elders of the church.

Classes were taught in sociology, theology and religion. During the first week of the school H. F. Hall of the Garret Biblical Institute of Chicago gave a series of lectures on Modern Religious Movements. Applied Physiology on the Christian Ministry was the subject of lectures by Dr. L. W. Leseman, president of the Chicago Training school during the second week.

Classes were held in the main hall of the college and the students and teachers were housed in Ormsby hall.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT IN BOY'S CONDITION

The condition of Melvin Brockman, 19, R. R. 6 Appleton, who was severely burned about the body and both hands Monday afternoon was fair Thursday according to the attending physician. Brockman was burned when a kerosene engine, which he was attempting to start, backfired and ignited the priming gas. He is confined in St. Elizabeth hospital where he was taken after the accident.

On Tuesday afternoon, Elmer Brockman, a member of the Appleton fire department and a brother of the injured youth submitted to a blood transfusion to save his brother's life.

Builds on Farm
A combination poultry-house and hog-pen is being built this week by John Probst, route 4, Appleton, on his farm in the town of Center. The new building is about 15 by 38 feet in dimensions, and will be completed by the end of the week.

THE WEATHER

THURSDAY'S TEMPERATURES

	Coldest	Warmest
Chicago	68	74
Denver	58	82
Duluth	54	70
Galveston	76	88
Kansas City	73	85
Milwaukee	62	70
St. Paul	58	82
Seattle	55	74
Washington	72	80
Winnipeg	55	80

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Mostly unsettled, probably showers or thunderstorms tonight or Friday; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure continues rather high over the upper lake region and local showers are pushing into its territory and a West Indian hurricane is causing heavy rains and high winds on the south Atlantic coast. A slight low pressure area over the Missouri valley is causing warm and unsettled weather within the territory covered by its influence. A temperature of 100 degrees was registered at Omaha yesterday. This "low" appears to be in position to cause further local showers in this section. It is followed by high pressure over the western plains, with cooler weather, which will reach this section by the end of the week.

Mrs. J. B. MacLaren and daughter Catherine will leave Friday for Michigan where they will visit for a week.

WANTED

The people of Appleton to know that I will deliver coal to them at a saving as in years before. Phone for prices and quality. Geo. A. Thomas, 311 W. Washington. Phone 3249-M.

DIGGING INTO ILLINOIS PRIMARY COSTS

It was so hot in Chicago that Senator James A. Reed of Missouri put on his summer guds when he went there to lead the primary election investigation. Note the tie which the fiery senator wears on hot days.

Washington Traffic Boss Throws Bouquets To Women

This is the sixth of a series of nine articles on men and women as automobile drivers. Traffic police in nine cities were interviewed, and voted, 5 to 4, that women are the better drivers.

By NEA Service

Washington—"I am the firmest believer that women automobile drivers are more careful than men."

Thus M. O. Eldridge, traffic director of the district of Columbia.

Almost to a man, his staff of traffic policemen, actually on the job at Washington's street intersections, agree with him.

"The women study the rules and regulations more closely than the men," he explains.

UNNECESSARY CHANCES
"I admit they take unnecessary chances occasionally, thinking they will concede them certain privileges, as women."

"They often do things that look foolish, things a man never would think of doing, but it's on the theory that allowances will be made for them, in my opinion."

This may not sound much as if Director Eldridge really did consider women more careful than men, but then he quotes figures, which do sound convincing:

"Since 1925," he said, "the permits of 468 men automobile drivers have been revoked in the District of Columbia."

"Some of the principal reasons were:

"Reckless driving, drunkenness, physical incapacity to handle a car safely, and speeding—third offense."

"In that same period only one woman lost her permit. She endangered the lives of pedestrians because of defective vision."

WHAT THE RECORD TELLS

Though he cannot state the exact proportion, as between men and women drivers in the District, the director does not believe there are 468 times as many men as women, as this record would suggest, if the two sexes' caution at the wheel of a car is to be considered even on a parity.

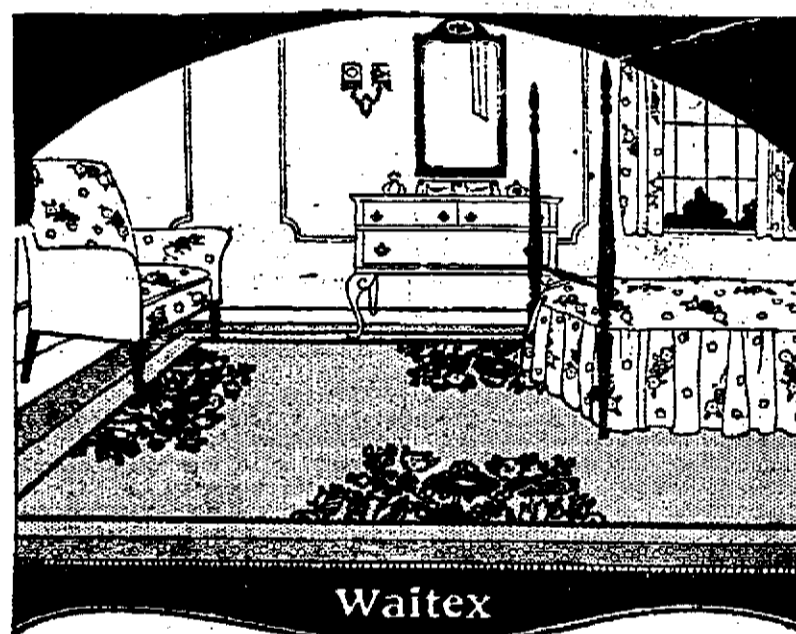

Neither does Director Eldridge consider that "defective vision" hints so strongly at carelessness as "reckless driving, drunkenness or speeding."

The question as to the relative

COLLEGE DECLINES TO SIGN PAVEMENT WAIVER

Property owners on E. College-ave who have demanded an asphalt dressing on the street will have to wait at least 90 days before action can be taken on the request because Lawrence college, the largest property owner on the street, has declined to sign waivers. If all property owners on the street had signed waivers bids could be advertised for and the work could be started in 10 days. Now the project must take the usual course.

The asphalt dressing will cost each owner 40 cents a yard. The street is said to be in poor condition.

Girls Learn How To Pack For Onaway

Instruction on what to take to camp and how to take it will be given to the girls who attend Camp Onaway, which opens Saturday at Onaway island, Waupaca, at a special meeting at 7 o'clock Thursday evening at the Playhouse of the Appleton Women's club.

Parents of Appleton girls who are to attend camp are invited to the meeting. Stunts will be given by several girls who have been to camp before, showing the proper method of rolling blankets and how to pack a suitcase. The girls are limited to one suitcase and one blanket roll. Several camp songs will be sung by the girls.

The girls will leave Appleton by bus at 6:30 Saturday morning. They will meet at the women's club rooms. Girls who leave for Waupaca by auto must arrange to arrive there either at 8:30 or at 9:30 as that is the time the boats leave the dock for Onaway island. The first meal will be served at noon Saturday and the regular camp program will start at once.

STAG PARTY FOR EAGLES AT RIVER ISLAND

Plans for the stag party to be held Sunday, Aug. 1, at Stroebes Island were completed Wednesday at the meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Members will fish before and after dinner for a fish fry at 4:30. A baseball game, tug of war, foot races and games will furnish the entertainment. Members intending to go must leave their names at the club so that Mr. Stroebel will know the quantity of chicken to prepare. Eagles are to meet at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the club where cars will be provided to take them to the island. A chicken dinner will be served at 12 o'clock.

EAGLES WILL HOLD PICNIC FOR CHILDREN

Final arrangements for the annual children's picnic to be given by the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be made Monday evening at Eagles hall. The picnic will be held Sunday, August 8, at Pierce park. Children and their parents are to meet at 1 o'clock at Eagles hall. Tickets, which will include the holder to free soft drinks, candy and to prizes at fish pond will be given to the children. The picnicers will march to the park from the club. The committee consists of Nels Gallepeau, Andrew Schlitz, Roy Koester, Henry Steadt and Charles Schimpf. Mrs. John Abendroth, Mrs. Clarence Currie, Mrs. Henry Harp, Mrs. Andrew Schlitz, Mrs. Edward Tornow, Mrs. Peter Rademacher and Mrs. Henry Koester will assist the committee.

MRS. SCHEIL WINS TOURNEY FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Arthur Scheil won the prize in the nine hole match for women Wednesday afternoon at Butte des Morts golf club with a low net score of 41. Only one prize was given due to the small entry. Mrs. Eric Lundberg made a net score of 43 and Mrs. August Brandt shot a net score of 44.

PICNICS

Thirteen tables were in play at the picnic held Wednesday by the Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles at Waverly beach. Prize winners at schafkopf were Mrs. J. Lafond, Mrs. Patrick Murphy and Mrs. C. Heardon. Mrs. Mary Schwanke, Kimberly and Mrs. D. Hoh won prizes at dice.

Fifty persons defied the rain and attended the basket picnic held Wednesday by the Sunshine club at the Tourist camp at Kaukauna. Ten members of the Grand Army of the Republic were present.

ENGAGEMENTS

Kiss Nearly Upset Opera But It Won Bride For Mario Chamlee

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
New York—Mario Chamlee was responsible for the worst performance Ruth Miller ever gave as an opera singer.

It was entirely his fault that her Marguerite, usually so perfect and so satisfying, lost poise, floundered miserably among the sharps and flats and couldn't make the high notes.

Chamlee gave her a kiss, which every Faust has a perfect right, and even a duty to bestow on Marguerite, according to the libretto, but the kiss he gave her wasn't Marguerite's usual stage kiss at all—it was a very real one from Mario Chamlee to Ruth Miller, and it revealed to her what she had not suspected—that she loved him. Only a carping critic would not forgive her for singing off key then.

CHAMLEE REJOICES
As for Chamlee, when he observed the effect of his kiss, and heard her singing off key and saw how her performance sagged, then he knew his love was answered. He sang better than he ever had before—and saved the evening for the audience.

This was in Detroit. Chamlee had heard Ruth Miller sing one other time, on the occasion of his first visit to New York, when he had checked his bags at the station and bought a ticket for opera before he knew where he was going to stay.

He had admired her voice so much that he had begged to be presented to her afterward so he might tell her so. But he had never seen her since. Until several months later when both had been engaged to sing in the same company that was sent to Detroit.

But not only had her clear soprano tones registered in his mind—in his heart he carried the image of her wistful face with the very large blue eyes and the soft brown hair that framed it so delicately.

Seeing her daily at rehearsals had only fanned the flame on sight of her had ignited it all more hopelessly in love daily. One afternoon he warned her.

"Tonight we are playing opposite each other in Faust, and I am going to kiss you squarely on the mouth—that's my privilege, you know."

She had received the news casually enough, but she couldn't be casual about the kiss. So, after that performance, they were engaged.

But the marriage was delayed for years. Along came the war and into khaki went Chamlee, first to a training camp, then to the trenches in France. Meanwhile, Ruth Miller went ahead in the Metropolitan, Chamlee was playing cymbals in regimental band, listed as a fourth-class musician.

He had never played any instrument until this time and was allowed to be the cymbalist because his voice made him a desirable addition to the band.

His spare time was spent writing to Ruth Miller. "I suffered more from writer's cramp than from shrapnel," he laughed. "But while she was getting on professionally, she didn't have a chance to forget her suitor in the trenches."

When the war was over, they were married. Then Chamlee studied, slaved and sang, and eventually he too won the distinction every singer craves—admission into the Metropolitan Opera company. Today he is one of the leading tenors.

SING IN CONCERTS
Since the birth of their son, Mrs. Chamlee has retired from opera, but she often appears in concerts with her husband. Incidentally both the Chamlees are American born and trained, and are good arguments against the theory that America can't produce opera singers.

Both are Westerners, she from Oregon and he from California, but they make their home in New York during the opera season, and in Connecticut, on their farm, at other times.

The most pleasing feature about this American romance is that it has that sturdy, perennial quality which is not considered indigenous to operatic soil. And they are so supremely happy that Mrs. Chamlee has long since forgiven her husband for throwing her off key in Detroit.

W. C. O. F. WILL GIVE CARD PARTY

Plans for an open card party to be held Wednesday, August 11 at the Catholic home were made Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters. Mrs. Chris Hearden is in charge of the arrangements for the card party.

Cards were played at the meeting. The winners at bridge were Mrs. Frank Slattery and Miss Anna Fassbender. Mrs. Joseph Schreiner and Mrs. Joseph Doerfler won prizes at schafkopf.

Breakfast—Orange juice with mint, cereal, thin cream, crisp waffles, syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked timbale of carrots, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, rhubarb cobbler, milk, tea.

Dinner—Hot-pot of spring lamb, creamed Swiss chard, boiled potatoes, milk, coffee.

Swiss chard is a versatile vegetable that is too often overlooked in our meal planning. It is good cooked and served in a cream sauce or plain "au naturel" in a salad. Young children may be given cooked chard "greens" as they would be spinach.

Hot-pot of spring lamb uses a cheap cut of meat to good advantage.

HOT-POT OF SPRING LAMB
One and one-half pounds shoulder of lamb, 1-2 cup pearl barley, 2 teaspoons salt, 3 large onions, 1 cup diced celery, 8 cups boiling water.

Remove skin from meat and cut in small, neat pieces. Fry out fat from meat. Add onions peeled and cut in thin slices and cook over a low fire until a golden brown. Add meat and sear on all sides. Add barley and water and simmer for one and one-half hours. Add celery and salt and cook about 30 minutes longer or until celery is tender.

Carrots and potatoes can also be cooked with the meat but the barley thickens the stew very satisfactorily. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

Household Hints

THAT SETA FINISH
The shiny brown surface that makes the top of a cherry pie so inviting is produced by glazing with the white of an egg.

WATCH THE MARKET
You can buy to advantage only if you know the seasons and buy what is cheaper because it is more plentiful. Never buy inferior quality because the waste amounts to more than the original saving and the product is poorer.

SANITARY
Never leave a bottle of milk where animals can reach it, and never open a bottle of milk without washing off the top.

ECONOMICAL
Buy small fruits only for immediate use, and can or preserve all that are not used for the table.

LET ICE MELT
It is not advisable to cover ice with blanket of newspapers as this prevents the circulation of the air currents in your refrigerator. You may save ice thereby, but you lose refrigeration.

KEEP BREAD BOX CLEAN
The bread box should be cleaned out twice a week during the hot weather. Remove all crumbs, and wash with soap and hot water. Rinse and dry in the sun if possible.

DON'T SCRAPE
Do not scrape food from agateware, soak well and boil out with soda or washing powder, if necessary.

AVOIDING RUST
If new tinware is greased slightly and warmed slowly without burning it will not rust easily.

REMOVING SALAD ODORS
Chopping bowls or wooden salad bowls that retain odor should be soaked in hot soda water, one teaspoonful of soda to one quart of water.

CONDITIONING DISH TOWELS
The dish towels should be washed at least once a day and at least once a week they should be boiled.

TUMBLER AT RIGHT HAND
In setting the dining table the tumbler should be at the right of the knife near the end of the blade.

ARRANGEMENT OF MEDICINES
When arranging the medicine cabinet, place those drugs and medicines which are oftenest in demand on the front of the shelves and those for more occasional use in the back rows.

EFFECTIVE BLUING
To blue your clothes most efficiently, use clean cold water and mix the bluing with the water before putting in the clothes. Do not allow them to stand in the water.

STOP FADING COLORS
When washing colored clothes always try a sample first, if possible, the first time you put them in the

ELKS BAND IS HONOR GUEST AT RECEPTION

Speakers Urge Civic Support for City's Musical Organizations

One hundred and twenty five members of the Elks club attended the reception for the Elks band in the club house Wednesday evening. A chicken dinner at 6:30 was followed by a program of talks and music. James H. Balliet, exalted ruler, presided.

Attorney J. P. Frank, the principal speaker, expressed the appreciation of the Elks and the city to the band. Mr. Frank devoted a large part of his address to discussing a proposal to raise $10,000 by taxation each year to finance the 120th Field Artillery band.

Edward F. Mumm, conductor of both bands, expressed the appreciation of his two musical organizations for the support they are receiving from the Elks' club and the city.

A. K. Ellis also said the band was deserving liberal support of the city. Plans were made for forming an "On to Cincinnati Club" to promote attendance at the National Elks convention in Cincinnati next July. A program for organization was outlined by John M. Balliet.

Entertainment consisted of dancing by Miss Hannah Rosenthal, solos by Harold Mc Gillan, accompanied by the band, and a number of selections by the Elks band.

laundry. If there is danger of fading, set the color by soaping in a gallon of water with two cups of salt or one of white vinegar. Then dry before really washing with soap.

BAN LUMPY STARCH
Always be sure that the starch for laundry purposes is free from lumps, well cooked and hot.

SPRINKLE WITH THESE
A whitish broom is better than your hand for sprinkling clothes. A small water sprinkler is also effective.

FOR LUNCHEON
Peanut butter sandwiches on brown bread are very nourishing for children, and highly satisfactory to their appetites.

FOR DESSERTS
Cream that is whipped will spread itself over many more desserts, in a more plentiful looking way, than that which is served plain.

ECONOMY
Save bits of cheese that become too hard to be palatable and grate them for soups or breaded dishes.

THE BEST WAY
To prepare buttered crumbs for scalloped dishes mix dried crumbs with melted butter using one-fourth of a cup of butter to one cup of crumbs.

GOOD COMBINATION
With lamb or mutton chops serve tomato sauce and green peas.

CHEAPER, TOO
A boiled group of sugar and water is preferable to any sugar for sweetening iced tea or lemonade.

OIL QUEEN

MRS. LEILA MAE BARNUM

Amarillo, Tex.—A few years ago Lela Mae Barnum was appearing in modest bits on the stage.

Then she left the stage to become a housewife.

A little later, divorced, she had to make and sell a beauty cream to support herself.

And now, after these diverse ventures, she is about to become a millionaire.

The answer?—Oil.

Two years ago, when she had her husband were divorced, they divided their holdings on certain tracts of land in northern Texas. The land was worth next to nothing then; but presently oil was found there and it went up in value.

To hold her portion, Mrs. Barnum had to pay $25 an acre. She made and sold a beauty cream, borrowed $200 from her mother and steadfastly refused to sell her acreage.

And she's glad of it. Her wells are producing in quantity. She was recently offered $250,000 for royalties on two wells, and says she has a million in sight.

And she's called "The oil queen of the Panhandle."

BETER ROASTING
When roasting beef that is very lean put a few bits of fat in the roaster. After the beef is seared and the flour brown, reduce the heat and cook more slowly.

LANGUAGE OF ENGLAND BESTS THAT OF U. S.

Tokyo—(AP)—Sir John Tilley, British ambassador to Japan, is in disagreement with certain American savants regarding the comparative quality of "English as she is spoke" on either side of the Atlantic.

He informed students of a Tokyo graduating class that "with all respect to our American friends," the proper place to learn the language is in England, "where the language was formed."

While England's English is not to be compared to America's English, Sir John said, continued friendship between Great Britain, America and Japan is absolutely necessary for the general welfare of the world.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bohon, 538 N. Tonkass, have returned from a trip through the south.

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school. I was so weak I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a house-keeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know that the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 310 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

KAUKAUNA NEWS

G. W. PATTON Telephone 298-J
Kaukauna RepresentativeINJURED MEN
ARE RECOVERINGFive Bruised and Cut When Automobile Tips Over at Curve in Road

Kaukauna—All five of the local men who were hurt in the coupe that turned over at a curve near Lehrer's farm on the Little Chicago road Tuesday afternoon, are improving. Only one of them, Frank Rockenbach, is confined to his home. He is suffering internal injuries and the doctors are not sure what may develop.

The car, owned by Phillip Cox, failed to make the last turn in the curve and went off into the ditch, tipping over three times. It rolled for nearly a hundred feet. The accident happened about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Phillip Cox suffered head cuts and bruises about the head, Paul Lucht was stabbed in the side by a piece of glass, William Hittin had his left collar bone broken and Frank Rockenbach suffered internal injuries. Howard Canham was not injured.

LAMERS FUNERAL HELD WEDNESDAY MORNING

Kaukauna—The funeral of Miss Johanna Lamers, 72, Dundas, was held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Francis church at Hollandtown. Interment was in the St. Francis cemetery in the same village. Miss Lamers died Monday morning after an illness of eight weeks. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Joseph Wolfinger of Dundas, and two brothers, John of Wrightstown and Peter of Sheboygan.

COMMITTEES PREPARE FOR NEXT STOCK FAIR

Kaukauna—Several committees are preparing for the August Pig Fair to be held at the Dodge-st fair grounds on August 14. An effort will be made to make this bigger and better than the celebration in May. There will be plenty of entertainment during the day and far into the evening. Kaukauna merchants will offer bargains. The fair is under the auspices of the Tri-County Fair association and Kaukauna. Many cattle buyers from out of the state will be here for the fair.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Mrs. R. Van Ellis entertained Tuesday evening at her home for Miss Elizabeth Gossens. Bridge was played and Miss Blanche Gerend and Miss Marie Gossens won prizes. About twelve guests attended. Miss Gossens is to be married to Lawrence Gerend on Monday, Aug. 2.

The Wednesday Evening Sewing club met at the home of Mrs. William Miller, Wednesday night. The evening was spent in playing cards.

A regular meeting of Odd Fellow lodge will be held Thursday evening. Routine business will be transacted.

LOWLY POSTALS
DEFEAT CHAMPSTail-end Squad Administers
First Defeat to Leading Homans

Kaukauna—The mighty have fallen. The Postals, the weaklings of the Kaukauna Twilight Soft Ball league, staged a "David and Goliath" act when they defeated the powerful and undefeated Homans Soft Ball team in a league game at the municipal playgrounds Wednesday evening.

The final count of the near miracle was 7 to 5. Not only did the government men wield a mighty stick but also played a brilliant game in the field. Three men crossed the plate for the Postals in the very first inning and Homans tied them in their half. The government men scored again in the second and sixth to tie the score and the Postals sent in the two winning runs in the seventh. This was Homans' first defeat of the year. From present indications it seems that there will be a merry race for first place the second half of the season.

The lineup:
Homans—Garvey, Brenzel, Peters, C. Phillips, Griffith, J. Phillips, Koch, Rennick, Nichols and Ruggles.
Postals—Mereness, Van Dyke, Trep-tow, Broubek, Mitz, Kuto, Carnot, Nagan, Berens and Schubring.

KAUKAUNA JUNIORS
PLAY NEENAH TEAM

Kaukauna—Kaukauna will play at Neenah at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in a regularly scheduled game in the Fox River Junior Baseball league. Kaukauna won its first game from Little Chute Tuesday by a 6 to 5 count. Little Chute was considered the strongest contender for first place in the league. The teams are made up of boys 16 years of age and under. Kimberly plays at Little Chute Friday in the other league.

PERSONALS FROM HILBERT JUNCTION

Hilbert—August Morack of Green Bay spent the weekend with his parents.

Here's Instant Relief from Bunions and Soft Corns

Actually Reduces the Swelling—Soft Corns Dry Right Up and Can Be Picked Off.

Vcigt's Drug Store, Schlitz Bros. Co. says Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflammation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your bunions may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right over the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moore's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes all the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields, or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn. Something that will end your foot troubles forever.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

STAGE AND SCREEN

PLAYS A COWBOY WITHOUT A HORSE

It is the usual thing to associate a sailor with a ship, a chauffeur with an automobile, a chef with a kitchen, a grand dame with a lorgnette, and whoever heard of a cowboy without a horse?

Charles Murray has been visited by just such a fate. He is playing a comedy role in "The Boob," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by William A. Wellman, which is appearing at the Elite Theatre today and Friday.
Charlie was outfitted with everything that a cowboy might use but a horse, that is a real flesh and blood horse. For the incessantly ingratiated character Tex, which he portrays, a saw-horse was supplied, and Murray claims that this is the first time that a cowboy ever appeared on the screen or anywhere else without a real horse.

George K. Arthur and Gertrude Olmsted are co-featured with Murray and Joan Crawford in this new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy. Antonio D'Algy and Hank Mann are also in the cast.

TINY RAILROAD SETS PRECEDENT WORTH MILLIONS

Whole Railroad World Interested in Suit by Line Nine Miles Long

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington—Pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission—was argued recently and the commissioners are thinking it over now—is what looks like a very dinky little railroad case, which, nevertheless, involves considerably more money than the war debt all Europe owes to the United States.

The railroad is the St. Louis & O'Fallon, a 9-mile line running out of East St. Louis.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has tentatively valued this road at $550,000. The road's management contends that it is worth more than twice the amount of the commission's estimate.

SPLIT WITH GOVERNMENT

The point is: According to law, a railroad which earns more than 6 per cent net profit on its par value must divide the excess evenly with the federal government.

On an $550,000 valuation the St. Louis & O'Fallon earns considerably more than 6 per cent and has something to divide with the government. On a basis of more than twice $550,000, it makes nothing like 6 per cent and has nothing to divide.

The question, obviously, is: one of valuations. How should they be made?

The President's Conference Committee, an organization of the executives of all the important railroads in the country, which really argued the St. Louis & O'Fallon case before the Interstate Commerce Commission, contends that a railroad's original cost has nothing to do with what it is worth today—but it is worth now as much as it would cost to reproduce it at present high prices.

DISAGREE ON BASIS

The National Conference of Valuation, an organization of railroad workers, shippers and communities served by railroads, which appeared before the commission in opposition to the President's Committee, maintains that the railroads are entitled to an undivided 6 per cent only on "the amount reasonably and honestly invested" in them.

The final decision on this valuation question in the St. Louis & O'Fallon case will set a precedent for all the railroads in the United States, which immediately explains why all of them are so much interested.

As the total sum involved: WORTH TWENTY BILLION Attorney Dorey, opening the recent argument before the commission, as "counsel" for the "Bureau" of valuation, put the investment value of all the country's roads at between 15 and 20 billions of dollars.

On a reproduction basis he said this would be increased by about 15 billions.

Commissioners Meyer and Aitchison immediately interrupted Dorey at this point, to say that a 15-million dollar increase was altogether too low an estimate, to which Dorey agreed that perhaps it was.

However, taking the lowest figures: On a 15 to 20 billion dollar valuation, the roads are making 6 per cent, and more, to divide with the government.

On a 30 to 35 billion valuation they are in financial straits and in a position to demand a reduction in their workers' pay and an increase in the shippers' rates.

VILLAGE MUST BUILD SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

State Board of Health Refuses to Approve Combined Locks Sewer System

Because the Wisconsin state board of health refused to sanction the proposed 7,200-foot sewer project in the village of Combined Locks, and ordered the village to construct a sewage disposal plant, the village council Tuesday evening rejected all bids for sewer construction. The sewer would have emptied into the Fox river.

No further bids will be called for until next year. The village will take steps to alter plans and make arrangements for a disposal plant which meets, with the approval of the state board, according to A. E. Mc Bahon, Menasha, engineer for the village.

The plans as advertised included 7,200 feet of sewer in the west end of the village, along the Darby-Little Chute road and including Elm, Williams, and Lomb-sts. The sewer would also include a part of what is known as Railroad-st.

CULNAN WRITES POEM FOR BADGER MAGAZINE

A poem written by Ralph Culnan, Marinette, a Lawrence college graduate, appears in the July issue of the Wisconsin Magazine issued this week. The poem is entitled "A Garden Figure" and appears with a full page of poems under the heading "With Wisconsin poets." A poem by the late Eben E. Rexford, Shiloh poet, also is in the section. Culnan has written a book of poetry since his graduation from Lawrence a few years ago. He worked as part-time office secretary of the Y. M. C. A. last winter while preparing another volume of poems.

A picture on the cover of the magazine was furnished by Harvey A. Schlintz, local photographer.

"MA" CAN RIDE 'EM

They call her "Ma Pettigill," after the shrewd philosophical heroine of the Harry Leon Wilson Red Gap stories, but she's the chaperone of the single American and Cossack Circus women with Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Great Far East, coming to Appleton, Thursday, Aug. 5, and when the cowgirls and cowboy kids her too much about riding one day she up and showed 'em.

She rode the sweetest bucking horse on the big show, and she rode it "pretty." Now, the woolliest of the buckaroos listen, hats in hand, when "Ma" opines this or that about riding. She "rides herd," too, on nearly one hundred and fifty girls—young women taking part in the many spectacles with the big 101 show, cowgirls and the single feminine riders of foreign lands. They call her "mother" too, so riding one day she up and showed 'em.

That's how much they think of her.

INFANT DEATH RATE HERE LESS THAN AVERAGE

Seven Wisconsin Cities Have Higher Infant Mortality Rate Than Appleton

The infant death rate in Appleton in 1925 was lower than the average rate for 632 cities in the birth registration area according to report by the American Child Health association. The average rate for the entire group of cities was 72.6 deaths among 1,000 live births and Appleton's rate was 71.

Seven cities of 21 which were rated in Wisconsin had higher death rates among the infants and one city was tied with Appleton. The cities with lower death rates are Eau Claire, 57; Fond du Lac, 68; Janesville, 68; Kenosha, 58; Madison, 43; Manitowoc, 69; Oshkosh, 45; Racine, 63; Sheboygan, 62; Superior, 58; Waukesha, 63; La Crosse, 53. At Stevens Point the rate is the same as Appleton.

Some of the cities which had a higher rate than Appleton are Green Bay, 75; Marinette, 76; Wausau, 77. "The quickest and easiest way to reduce a high infant mortality rate recorded against your city," the association declared, "is to demand registration of every birth as required by law."

PICK PAVEMENT TYPE AT NEXT COUNCIL MEETING

Selection of the type of pavement on S. Superior-st. will be made at the regular meeting of the common council on Wednesday, Aug. 4. Property owners on the street have been requested to attend the meeting. Bids are being tabulated by R. M. Connolly, city engineer.

Nearly twice as many persons were born in Outagamie-co during the year ending June 1, as the total number of those who died during that period, according to figures compiled by C. A. Harper, state registrar. The number of births from June 1, 1925, to June 1, 1926, was 1,258, while the number of deaths in the county for the same year was 642. There were 339 marriages in the county, the report shows.

Seventy-four checks, amounting to a total of $475, were sent to phys-cians of the county by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, for filing birth and death certificates; and 78 checks were sent to ministers, justices, etc., for filing marriage certificates. These amounted to $84.75. The total amount of the checks sent by the county clerk to the various local health officers, including reports on births, deaths, and marriages, is $545.15.

JOHN and FAY MILBURN live a home when their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract. Among their acquaintances are—

NOEL and VERA BOYD, whose marriage is strictly "modern."

NELL and HOWARD ORME, who seem to be unhappy together.

DR. DICK MENEFE, John's best friend, and his wife, MARGARET.

Previous chapters told how: FAY took JUDITH, the baby, to visit her parents in Chicago, and during her absence John "ran around" a good deal. When FAY returned gossip had retailed his doings and sharp quarrels followed, one of which drove him out "on a tear" and caused FAY to threaten to leave him.

A growing, but timid, interest in Nell Orme is brought to a head by Vera Boyd, who takes delight in promoting "affairs." The day comes when John takes Nell madly in his arms.

FAY finds it out and leaves him. John closes up the house, taking an apartment, where Nell comes to see him one night after a violent quarrel with her husband, Howard comes in on them, and threatens divorce. That night he commits suicide, and again John is seized by the flames of scandal. Dick Menefe begins to worry about him, thinking John may be contemplating suicide himself.

Then NATHANIEL GRAHAM, John's business partner, who has been growing colder and colder all along, offers John $15,000 on his interest in the business.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER LVII

John appeared to be considering him, for just a brief instant. Little ray of hope flickered. But it led.

He said slowly, "Fifteen thousand. Don't you think it's worth more?"

And again a little light of satisfaction had darted to Graham's eyes. "Hardly," he answered. "And if that I'd have to deduct the amount you owe the firm. How much?"

"Five hundred. I've cut it down."

"Well, I'll give you fourteen thousand and five hundred."

"But it's worth more than that," John protested. "We cleared better than six thousand dollars apiece last year."

"Yes, and we each put in more than six thousand dollars worth of work. Either you or I could make half as much working for someone else, you could anyway," he added flatly. "And without any money investment on your part."

"But we'd just got our feet on the ground, and were beginning to grow."

"You know very well we're losing ground right now. The way people are talking—"

"Oh yes," he said.

"Besides," Graham went on, "if I buy you out you have two or three accounts that you can't make a dime in spite of everything I can do. They like you for your copy, and when their contracts expire with Graham and Milburn they're yours for the asking. No, John, the thing isn't worth as much as you seem to think. And desperate cases require desperate remedies. You need the cash and the firm needs a fresh start."

"You intend to go it alone here, Nat? Hire a copy writer to take my place?"

Graham shifted uncomfortably. "Well, I'm not quite ready to say."

And John knew then that Nat had been thinking and planning for some time. He couldn't help saying, "You're not thinking of hooking up with Kelly and Jones, are you?"

Nat started violently, and his simulated innocent surprise failed to deceive John, who was amazed to observe the effect his words had had on Graham.

"No, why did you ask that? Why should I go with Kelly and Jones?"

"I don't know. It just occurred to me, that's all."

"No, no—nothing like that."

He was lying; of that John was sure.

"Well, I'll tell you, Nat," he said. "I'll have to think over your offer. But it still isn't like a low price for a half interest in this business. I think you ought to do better."

Graham shook his head. "I'm sorry; it isn't worth any more."

John said nothing more for several minutes, and when he finally spoke there was in the back of his head, the germ of a new idea. "Well, now, Nat, it's pretty hard to decide the way or the other right now. I don't know whether I want to sell or not. I know we can't continue together, and I don't see how I possibly could buy you out. Yet why not make me the same proposition? Why not give me the opportunity of buying you out for fifteen thousand?"

Graham frowned. "But you said you couldn't raise the money—and I can raise it right away."

"I know it. I don't see how I can raise it. But how do I know you're acting in good faith unless you give me the same chance you're asking?"

"Well now—"

Graham began, but he was interrupted by John, who said, "You're a business man—a darn good one. And I've always been a pretty rotten one. But you've got me in a tight place. You've got me offering me a price for my share of the business that I think is low. You insist that it isn't worth any more, so I insist that you show your good faith by setting the same price on your half in case I want to buy."

This was hardly to Graham's liking, and he began to protest about the "uselessness" of it, considering John's inability to raise the cash.

"All right, then," John told him. "I'll get the idea you're trying to put one over on me. Well, you won't budge me now. I'll stick along just as we've been going, and if the business goes to the dogs, well and good."

"But see here, we can't do that. You know we've got to split."

"But I'll be damned if I'll let you put anything over on me."

"Do you think I'm trying to put anything over on you?"

"You're acting like it."

"Humph!" Graham could not hide his annoyance. "Well, then, just what do you want me to do?"

"Agree to sell to me providing I can raise the money in thirty days. If I can't, I sell to you."

But, Nat protested, thirty days was too long.

"Not very long when you're trying to raise fifteen thousand dollars," John remarked dryly. "Not long enough."

Graham squinted at him and said, "I'll do it if you agree to two weeks instead of thirty days. That's the best I'll do."

"His jaw set."

"Oh, well, and John scratched his head. "All right. Now, put it in writing."

Graham regarded his partner curiously. "Seems to me," he ventured, "that you've learned a lot about business lately."

"Yes," and John laughed. "Well, I've been told I had a lot to learn."

Graham was unscrewing the cap of his fountain pen. "Two weeks from today it is. Deadline at noon. If by that time you can give me a certified check for fifteen thousand, the firm of Graham and Milburn is yours."

And John was thinking. "Yes, and what a fat chance I've got."

He said to himself, "Nat—you've got to admit that fifteen thousand in two weeks."

Yes, John was telling himself that evening. Nat certainly had all the best of it. The business of getting Nat to give him the same proposition that he sought for himself had been a little more than a gesture on his part—a forestalling of the inevitable.

He knew now that Graham had been planning for a long time to buy him out and now had him in a place where he could squeeze him.

Not for nothing had Nat been questioning him about his finances—his house, in which he had but little more than $4000 equity and that tied up because of FAY; his indebtedness to the firm; dozens of little questions that had been asked with such an air of casual innocence. Yes, Nat knew how impossible it all was.

And with the reputation he now had, "Nat," he said to himself, "is making some kind of deal with Kelly and Jones. I know it."

"Nat had betrayed himself that very day, no question of it. And what could it be, he wondered—an amalgamation?"

Graham had purposely undervalued the business—he knew that. Knowing he could name his own price with John forced to the wall. He shook his head hopelessly, got up from his chair and walked aimlessly back and forth across the room, his hands shoved in his pockets—thinking. Thinking if only there was some way of raising the money—some friends he could go to who could help him.

Nat going to merge with Kelly and Jones? What kind of a deal was in the air? What had Nat up his sleeve?

Merge with Kelly? All the stubbornness in him rebelled at the thought. And supposing the impossible happened and somebody dropped the fifteen thousand in his lap. What then? Could not Graham, if he were going with Kelly and Jones, just about ruin him if he tried to struggle along on his own?

"By God, though," he said, "the change he's made recently, and I thought his first down reckoning on the table 'I'd show them something. I'd lick them."

But—

And a despairing shrug of his shoulders.

Hopeless.

With a courage born of desperation he went the next morning to the bank, laid his cards on the table and, assuming an air of bravado he was far from feeling, asked whether they'd be willing to lend him the money—or two-thirds of it even; he'd struggle through somehow raising the rest.

The bank official was kindly but discouraging. "I'm afraid not, Mr. Milburn. The business is too intangible. You've nothing to show for your investment, you know, but good will. Now if you had some physical property; for instance, if you were in some business where you had a lot of stock, why—"

But our contracts are tangible enough. You could take a lien on the business, you know."

"A lot of your clients have no contracts. And none of them has as much as a year to run. Besides, if they wanted to revoke them, you'd have a lot of trouble. Litigation and the chance. Besides, business conditions right now, you know—" and he made a little face—"well, the advertising business is beginning to feel it. I think you'll see some mergers before long."

Undoubtedly that was true, John thought, and he could come very near naming at least one of the mergers.

"Then you can't do anything for me?"

"Sorry. Now, if you had some property. Do you own any real estate?"

"It's in my wife's name," John began, and stopped short.

"Well, why not get her to sign?"

"Haven't got enough of an equity to amount to anything," John said shortly and reached for his hat.

And why not, he was thinking as he walked away from the bank, why not write to FAY and tell her the story? Would she, as a business proposition, be willing to re-invest in the firm again? She had done it once. But no; he'd be damned if he'd do it—he'd be damned if he'd go to her asking for help. What did he mean to her, anyway?

Nothing.

But hold on, hadn't her letter of late been more sympathetic? Wasn't it possible that she had softened toward him?

"Well, what if it?" he said fiercely.

"Do you suppose I'd crawl before her? If I can't lick this thing without her, I'll get licked myself."

And suddenly he was possessed of a fine joy—the joy of battle. Yes, all that was holy, he'd fight this thing out, and if he were beaten he'd take his licking like a man. It seemed now that nothing mattered save that he keep that business he had worked so hard to put over and gone and FAY gone and all the world whirling behind his back.

"I'll go," he said, with sudden resolution, to Dick Menefe.

USE PRINTING ON SHEEPSKINS

University of Michigan Abolishes Handwriting on Diplomas

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—Printing presses have supplanted penmen in inscribing the names of graduates of the University of Michigan upon their diplomas.

Seven years of experiments preceded the handing out of the first printed sheepskin to a Michigan graduate. The first problem was the ink, the usual printers ink creating a smudge, failing to absorb properly and failing to dry properly. Finally an ink prepared for printing on celluloid solved the problem. Used on the vellum, it gives a brilliant black, not to be easily distinguished from the indelible inks formerly used by the penmen.

Then it was found that not only did the marring of a sheepskin vary as much as three quarters of an inch, but that trimming the margins until they were square bettered the situation but little. Press registration was eventually accomplished by establishing colored points on the press by which the vellum was lined up, these points showing through. The vellum was then held in place and largely protected from soiling by a "frisket."

In printing in the lettering, forty-eight point Old English is used for the name and the script similar to the body of the diploma for the date. The cost of printing is estimated to be about a fourth of that of hand lettering.

Prominent Michigan Man Gladly Gives Testimony

Declares Drecto is a Wonderful Remedy for Rheumatism and Stomach Troubles. Tells How it Helped Both Himself and Son.

Free Samples New Herbal Remedy, Given by Drecto Man at SCHLINTZ BROS. DOWNTOWN DRUG STORE

No one is more to be pitied than those suffering from rheumatic aches and pains. Yet this is a condition that arises usually because the system is clogged with poisons. Drecto eliminates these poisons from the system, purifies the blood and regulates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and in thousands of cases has brought relief to rheumatism after everything else had failed.

In a recent talk with the Drecto man, Mr. H. Williams, 511 No. Park-st., a Kalamazoo, Mich., engineer working for the State of Michigan, made these emphatic statements:

"I believe Drecto to be one of the best remedies for rheumatism and stomach troubles ever sold and have great faith for it helped both my son and myself when nothing else would."

Mr. W. V. Martin, the well-known Expert from the Drecto Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. downtown drug-store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Drecto for best results. Go to see him.

Mr. H. Williams

"Since taking it I am now entirely free of rheumatism and headaches. I sleep better and feel fine in every way. My son Clarence who has suffered for a long time with his stomach has also started taking it and he is improving so fast he'll soon be able to go to work on the new Kalamazoo truck we have just bought."

Persons who suffer from headaches, gastritis, nervousness, constipation, poor sleep, weak kidneys, lazy livers, a deranged stomach or impure slow flowing blood will notice the prompt action Drecto has on their ailments.

A Few Facts About Silver Foxes

The number of Silver Foxes in captivity today is estimated to be about 17,000.

Raising domesticated Silver Foxes is now a well established business, practically all of these are raised in Eastern Canada and the Northern United States.

Less than half a dozen European cities demand more pelts than can be supplied.

The Silver Fox Fur has always been a fur of Royalty and for that reason we see so few in this country. It has been practically impossible to procure them.

The Hudson Bay Company records for over 200 years show a continuous demand for all pelts offered.

If every Silver Fox in the world should be pelted in November or December, when the fur is prime, they could all be disposed of in a city the size of New York in less than a week's time at a fabulous sum.

The Silver Fox pelts of high quality are very beautiful and valuable. There has always been a demand for best quality silver pelts at high prices. There are not enough Silver Fox furs available at the present time to justify advertising or featuring them.

On account of this scarcity no effort has been made to popularize the Silver Fox fur.

The most exclusive furriers in the whole country can supply only a very few each year.

How many Silver Fox scarfs have you ever seen worn? Perhaps one or two, but probably none.

When you stop to consider the insignificant number of Silver Foxes there are in the whole world, and hundreds of thousands of potential buyers of Silver Fox furs you can perhaps appreciate the possibilities this wonderful new industry has to offer to those who become engaged in it.

Most foxes are now being sold for breeding purposes, and of course enormous profits are being realized but even though we were pelting them and selling their skins at a price of $200 each it would still be one of the most profitable businesses one could engage in.

The extent of success in the business, however, depends largely upon the quality of the product. You can not expect to realize such big returns from inferior animals as from high grade, registered and pedigreed stock.

Some foxes are cheap at $10,000; while others are very expensive at $130.

One of the duties of the Appleton Silver Black Fox & Fur Company is to be of service to the uninitiated in getting started in the business.

The largest and most progressive Fox Breeders of the country are members of the American National Fox Breeders Association.

You are safer in dealing with a member of the Association than you would be by dealing with a non-member.

There are no secrets for ranching. Information that at one time was priceless is now available for every one interested.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C. and the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, Canada have each issued several instructive pamphlets on the industry.

It is interesting to note that the fox industry is heartily endorsed by the Government of the United States, as well as by the Canadian Government.

Foxes are kept in ranches, each pen being of heavy galvanized mesh wire usually sunk in the ground about three feet to prevent the foxes from burrowing to freedom.

The wire fences are built averaging 8 feet in height and have an overhang wire shelf at the top to prevent foxes from climbing over.

Different localities require different types of ranches and dens. Plans and suggestions can be had by asking us.

A fox is a very hardy animal.

The breeding life of a fox is ten years and nature is regular and liberal in producing young each year.

The average litter of pups is about four, although litters of seven and eight are quite common and occasionally a litter of nine or ten is recorded.

The period of gestation is 51 days, young foxes are as large as their parents at six months old, and are fully matured at the end of ten. You can see therefore, that your investment has a complete turn over in a twelve month period.

In the fox industry everything is on top of the ground in plain sight where all activities are seen daily.

One need not be a land owner to enjoy the profits made in the fox business.

A city man or woman may engage in the fox business without interfering with their present vocation and enjoy the profits.

Any man or woman without experience can build an income from $1000 to $10,000 a year by buying one or more pairs of foxes.

It will pay you to invest and you are free to call upon us at any time for advice and information.

By starting with the right kind of stock there is no reason why anyone should not meet with the best of success in the Silver Fox business.

The Appleton Silver Black Fox & Fur Company is a company organized to raise, ranch and sell high grade foxes for breeding and pelting purposes. It is a policy of the company to set aside a few pairs of foxes for parties to whom the opportunity of investing presents itself or for furnishing the foundation stock of those who contemplate starting a ranch of their own.

For those who do not wish to ranch their own foxes but who do desire to own a pair we wish to state that we are in a position to ranch their foxes for them at a nominal sum, and while so ranching with us the owner may be assured that they will be cared for the same as our own foxes, and will be under the observation of experienced for ranchers and breeders.

We have ranches at Watertown, Wis., Random Lake, Wis., Oconomowoc, Wis., and Astico, Wis.

A new ranch at Appleton, Wis. will soon be in operation where local people may have their foxes ranched for them.

Information may be had by calling at, or writing to the local office located at 233 Insurance Bldg. Tel. 4430.

Natural Iodine In Deep Sea Water

Natural Iodine—the right kind of Iodine, comes from the sea and there is just enough of it in Ocean-O, the deep sea water blood treatment for those who have simple goitre or thyroid gland trouble.

Besides Iodine there are many other natural mineral elements in Ocean-O that are easily absorbed into the blood and carry their rich upbuilding atoms to every organ, gland and tissue in the body, putting new vigor into the human organism and creating abundant strength and vitality in those who are weak, run down, nervous and depressed.

Ocean-O is highly concentrated deep sea water distilled and filtered and the excess common salt removed and as one teaspoonful in a glass of water constitutes a dose of 10-ounce bottle which you can get from Volgi's Drug Store or any pharmacist anywhere lasts a long time.

Any physician will tell you that deep sea water has in it every mineral element that is found in pure, healthy blood and that is why Ocean-O is so much in demand by the people whose blood needs it's alkalizing influence and especially by those who have eczema or obstinate skin eruptions and rheumatism due to acidity of the blood.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

THE STORY BELIEVED

"You needn't go back there, you poor child," said Mamie Riley. I know exactly how you feel. You are torn between solitude and having someone about who would bother you with questions. You cannot determine which would be least aggravating to you. I think, however, it would be solitude. I won't bother you, Julie, you can sleep in sister's room, you know."

As I looked into that smiling face, I knew that if I went out to a strange hotel I would cry myself ill. Quickly I made my decision.

"I'll go with you and thank you for taking in a stranger who comes to you under such dubious circumstances," I said.

"Oh, that's all right," was Mamie's comfortable rejoinder. "We girls must stick together."

"If you are sure you want me," I said brokenly, "I'll be glad to have I ever was in my life to come."

"Well, then, that's that. Don't worry any more about anything, Julie, until we see what tomorrow will bring."

In a little while we were on our way to Mamie's.

"Mother is asleep," she said as we entered the house. "I will come into the room you will sleep in for it is farther away from hers than mine where I am afraid we would wake her up with our gab."

"We got into night clothes, Mamie, lending me a pair of pajamas, the first I ever had on, and sitting on the bed with our feet curled up under us, I told her my story from the time I had boarded the train."

"Gen, that's tough," was Mamie's exclamation when I came to the place where I lost my money.

"You know I'm telling the truth about it, don't you, Mamie?"

"Of course I do, and so did those guys down at the restaurant. To think that man Sterns just the same as called you a thief and a liar when he knew as well as I do that you are telling the truth! It just makes my blood boil."

"My advice to you, Julie, is to get away from that restaurant as soon as you can. I expect you'll have to stay there until you can find something better but I'm your friend even if I lose my job." Mamie put her arms around me and kissed me.

I broke down and cried like a baby and confided that perhaps I had better go home.

"Do you want to go home?" asked Mamie quickly.

TOMORROW: A New Home

USE MOVIE CAMERA AS COURT WITNESS

Rochester, N. Y. (P)—The amateur movie camera has been called into court as a witness.

A laborer sued the local street railway company, charging he had become lame as the result of an accident. After the plaintiff had introduced medical testimony to support his contention, the defendant brought in the motion picture.

The film showed the laborer leaving his home, bounding down the steps with the air of an athlete. Then, as he neared a doctor's office, he staggered lamely. Defense counsel had employed a photographer, who had wrapped his cine-kodak in paper to get the evidence.

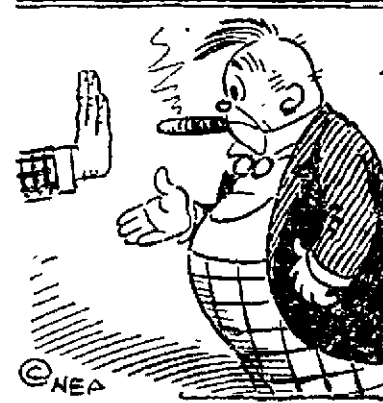

The court denied the indemnity and held the plaintiff for perjury.

SAXOPHONE IS OUTLET FOR ENERGIES OF GANG

Elkhart, Ind. (P)—Young America is safely blowing away its excessive and sometimes dangerous energy through the saxophone, the sliding trombone and similar instruments, in the opinion of C. D. Greenleaf, of Elkhart, president of the National Association of Band Instrument Manufacturers.

"It is a serious problem with many parents in these days to find wholesome methods of recreation for their children, and the band and orchestra furnish one solution," Mr. Greenleaf said.

"They furnish an ideal outlet for the energies of the 'gang,' which might otherwise be expressed in ways not nearly so healthful. The growing interest in music among our people will, in my judgment, in a few years make America a musical nation."

LAWRENCE COLLEGE TO HAVE 7 NEW NET COURTS

George Whiting Donates Money For Complete Net Courts On Athletic Field

To Be Finest in State College Circles; Fred Tresize Supervises Work

Lawrence college tennis players will have the opportunity of playing on seven of the finest college courts in Wisconsin when they return to school in the fall as the result of a donation by George A. Whiting of Neenah, donor of Whiting Athletic field, home of Blue sport squads. Mr. Whiting's donation will be used to build seven courts, costing approximately $3,000 on the Whiting field.

The courts will be on the northwest corner of the field, west of the press tower and north of the running track. They will be made of clay with a sand and gravel screen surface. Fred Tresize, college instructor in mathematics and surveying and a well-known engineer, will supervise the work as he did the construction of the field, one of the finest in the west. Mr. Tresize has been athletic manager of the Blue institution for a number of years and at one time handled all track work. The college will hire the labor and all workers. Plans for the courts already are completed and work will be started early next week.

Last year the state net meet was held here on the two campus courts, but the new courts will be a decided improvement and probably will be the site of many future net tournaments. The Blues, though only adopting the sport a few years ago, have developed one of the strongest teams in the state for the last two years, being every team they encountered in dual meets last season, including Marquette University, and losing only to Marquette in the state meet. The local school is a charter member of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Tennis conference. The new courts should develop even stronger teams at the school and will aid Athletic Director A. C. Denny's intermural and minor sport programs.

TRIPLE PLAYS

JOHNNY JENKINS
Triple plays don't mean a great deal to this chap—shortstop of the Memphis club, Southern Association. He started two in the last month, pulling the initial one a few weeks ago with the bases full and the second shortly after by grabbing a liner from the bat of a Nashville player, stepping on second and tossing to first for the third out. Down south they're now calling him "Triple Play Johnny."

FOUR GOLFERS REMAIN IN STATE WOMENS MEET

Milwaukee—(P)—Four interesting matches are under way Thursday at Tripoli Country club here where the Wisconsin Womens' Golf association tournament is reaching the final stages.

Dorothy Page, Madison, tournament medalist, Frances Hadfield, long-hitting Blue Moulder of Milwaukee, Mrs. G. E. Cleophas, Beloit, owner of a magic putter, and Jean Cannon, Milwaukee, who plays especially sound golf are expected to come through Thursday's tests, and turn in an evenly matched competition in the semi-final Friday. Miss Page is expected to encounter little difficulty in eliminating Mrs. C. C. Russell of Milwaukee Country club. However, Mrs. Russell plays a better match game than medal, and knocks off a sufficient number of pars and to make going uncomfortable for the best match players.

Frances Hadfield should come through against Helen Johnstone on the strength of her card of Wednesday which showed her one over par for the eighteen. Miss Johnstone's game has not been strong enough this season to match such shooting. Helen Grobbin is not conceded much of a chance against the steady, untrifled play of Mrs. Cleophas. Shooters Beloit entry's short game, and she is bound to hang on the brink of disaster, because the Milwaukee girl hits them long with both wood and iron and is an especially determined player.

Jean Cannon is picked to win over Mrs. Samuel Sherman.

HARDWARES WIN FROM BAKERS IN K-C LOOP

Kimberly—Scoring two runs in a rally in the sixth frame Verhagen's Hardware took a Kimberly Twilight softball loop tilt from Van Thull's Bakers Wednesday evening at the ball park, 3-1. Judkins and Gerrits, rival hurlers, allowed only three safe hits apiece, but the winner's came in a cluster. The Hardware scored once in the third and the score was tied in the fourth. Then in the sixth the winners scored twice and the remainder of the tilt was scoreless.

Judkins, Bush and Swark scored for the winners while Hofkins scored the Bakers' only tally. Thursday evening the Wydevan Shoes are scheduled to meet the Postmasters in a loop tilt.

Louisville, Ky.—The Brewers did a flip-flop back to the top of the association heap here Wednesday afternoon behind the curving magic of Charley Robertson. Joe Dawson was not so good and seven runs were gleaned from the sheik's speedball flinging.

FRIDAY GAME American Legion vs Bankers.

With an infield weakened by the illness of Eggert, one of the best third-sackers in the loop, and with three hurlers feeling the sting of the heavy-hitting Interlake crew, the faltering Post-Crescent squad, lost another game Wednesday afternoon in the Twilight softball loop, with the cellar Interlakes being the winners of a 13-11 tilt at Jones park. The quickly revamped infield of the losers failed to function and LaRose was knocked from the box early in the game, lack of control hurting his effectiveness. Sternard and Bender, finished the tilt, both being hit hard. LaRose was hit just as hard, but he had a nice lead to work on due to his mates' slugging; the weakened infield of the P-C men and poor baserunning by the losers at times.

Though behind by at least three runs from the early frames, the losers fought gamely and worked two runs over in the eighth and four in the ninth—on hard rallies. In the final frame, poor baserunning lost the Sternard crew a chance for a tie in his desperate rally. As P-C man cleaned the sacks with a long hit, the Interlakers throwing the pill around wildly, just the time to take advantage of it. But he attempted to stretch a double into a triple and was caught at third for the final out. The new outfielder and hurler of the losers were not yet ready for play but will be next week. The Interlakes tied the Meyer Press for fifth in the win, but a few points behind the P-C men.

Sternard was the bat star of the day with five hits in five tries. Four hits went to LaRose of the losers and Coon of the winners. Three hits were credited to Bender and Bates of the losers, and McCourt, Kirk, Quill, Moody and Kessler of the winners. The Interlakes started scoring with three in the second but the P-C men came back with four only to see the Interlakes add two more in the third. Both added a score in the fifth for a 6-5 lead for the winners. In the seventh the balloon went up for three Interlake runs, 9-6. In the eighth, four more made it 13-5 and then the losers added a pair, 13-7. The final frame saw the Interlakes held scoreless and four P-C men crossing the plate, the bad baserunning spoiling a possible tie.

ONLY 16, BUT HE FANS 120

Fanning 120 men in 70 innings is quite a feat, yet that is what Fred Sington, 16-year-old high school pitcher of Birmingham, Ala., has done in an amateur league of his home city. In addition, Fred has been bruising the leather at a 570 yard, getting five home runs. He's the youngest player in the league and though only a junior in high school has received offers from three Southern Association clubs. Fred says he's going to finish college before giving pro ball a whirl, however.

French Boxers Noted For Rights; Jack No Exception

BY JOE WILLIAMS
New York—Like the delicate aroma which is identified with the festive garlic, the right hand puncher and a French fighter are inseparable. This goes as well for the certified Class A Frenchman of the Carpenter type as it does for the boys who are catalogued casually in the genealogy files as being of "French extraction." By now the world knows that Mons. Ovila Chapdelaine, known less heroically as Jack Delaney, is the new light-heavyweight champion of the works. That he is also of French extraction is not a secret, either.

Delaney's best punch is his right hand. He could have checked his left with his Aunt Emma over in Bridgeport, Conn., the night he shellacked Paul Berlenbach and still won the title by at least seven furlongs.

Delaney's right is probably the most versatile right hand that ever dangled menacingly from a belligerent shoulder or socket. If there is anything he can't do with it I failed to notice what it was during his brisk rebellion against the "Castoria Assassin."

All Carpentier could do with that great right hand of his was to shoot it straight from the shoulder. This meant he had to have just the opening he wanted before he could get results. When it did land, of course, it was a kayo. Delaney's right hand is not like that.

At long range Delaney can shoot his right either on a straight line or from an angle; in close he can drive it hard to the body with plenty of body power furnishing the impetus, or he can drive it to the jaw, a ripping uppercut, that carries plenty of danger.

There is, in short, a fluency and a flexibility to the operation which makes the Delaney right a rather remarkable weapon. This is quality not unusual in left-handed punchers but it is seldom in such abundance in right-handers.

It might be interesting to recall at this point that the Delaney right is synthetic as to ingredients. Which is to say it is the original pattern torn down and rebuilt to suit the tenant. When Delaney started boxing his right was brittle as glass. After every fight from one to three bones would be broken.

Finally, after breaking the hand for the eleventh time, fighting Jimmy Darcy in the semi-final of the Harry-Greb-Johnny Wilson fight three years ago he tossed it on the surgical table of G. W. Pralick, noted fistic knife man, and said, "Put in a new battery, grind the valves and give it a 'duco finish'."

Pralick must have performed a miraculous operation on Delaney's hand, for not only did it acquire a new durability but it immediately developed a knockout power that the hand in its original design never knew. Except for a slight fracture of the thumb in the Berlenbach bout, Delaney's right hasn't been hurt since.

Other fighters of French blood, though not strictly Frenchmen, to attain distinction at right hand sockers were George Lavigne, who was good enough to beat one of the greatest fighters of all time, namely, Joe Walcott; Tommy Burns, who won the heavyweight title succeeding Jeffries, and Arthur Pelky.

It was around Pelky's right, you may recall, that was written one of the harrowing tragedies of modern boxing. He caught Luther McCarty, best of the white heavyweights at the time, back of the ear in the first round with a long right and the Irishman fell to the floor dead.

It was only a few minutes after a local clergyman had delivered a solemn sermon from the ring, the subject of which was "The mystery of death."

Bible Moll, Allentown, Pa., and Dorey Shimer, Williamsport, fought a draw (6).

OSHKOSH EAGLES PLAY APPLETON TEAM HERE

Appleton Eagle baseball team of the valley Eagle loop, will play host to the Oshkosh team here on Sunday. The Menasha Eagles, resting comfortably on the top rung of the league, will meet the crack Neenah crew at Neenah.

Neenah held the lead until two weeks ago. Since that time Menasha has won two twin bills, trimming Neenah in a double attraction two weeks ago and administering the same treatment to Appleton last Sunday.

HELPFUL HINTS GOLFING STARS

CECIL LEITCH—GREATEST FAULT IN PUTTING
In the event there are any players who, like myself, experience times on the green when they are hitting the ball here, there and everywhere, I must point out what I have in my own case found to be the cause. This temporary paralysis is caused by the tightening of the muscles of the wrists and forearms, with the result that the ball is stabbed by means of a stiff jerk of the arms. The wrists must be allowed freedom, but those who are suffering from an attack of putting paralysis should exaggerate the looseness of the grip and wrists.

There is one other common fault in putting to which I must refer, and that is the tendency to turn the right hand over at the moment of impact. This action is to be avoided at all costs on the green, as it applies a slight pull to the ball at the end of its journey.

When suffering from disappointing results of this nature it is well to see in what direction the head of the putter is in at the end of the stroke. The toe of the club will generally be found to be pointing in the direction of the hole instead of being at right angles to it.

KIMBERLY SQUAD WANTS REVENGE FOR PAST LOSS

Len Smith to Attempt to Whip Baetzmen in Struggles at Village on Sunday

Special to Post-Crescent
Kimberly—The Kimberly ball team with Len Smith on the mound is out for revenge for the 9 to 1 walloping the Appleton crew gave Kimberly when the locals paid the up river team a visit on July 4th. Appleton is the favorite with the exceptional showing of strength that it displayed last Sunday when it trounced Bruce Noel's aggregation from Oshkosh, 5 to 1. In what was an Appleton victory from the start, Sternagle, who let Oshkosh down with five hits, probably will be the Baetz choice for Appleton, while he will have Refke, who held Kimberly to four hits on July 4 in reserve. Charley Schell who snapped out of his batting slump Sunday and celebrated the day with a perfect afternoon at bat will be at his old post at first for Kimberly. Charley was up four times in the Neenah game and handed on four perfect bingles for 1,000 per cent average for the day. Cliff Courtney, Lawrence athletic ace, will be at second, Butch Thein at shortstop, and Vanderloop at third. In the outfield will be H. Thein, Ossie Cooke, Pocan, Pete Koll and Nig Verhagen. One of the largest crowds of the season is anticipated when the two teams meet, and interest will run high for if either team loses two straight it is practically out of the running for anything better than fourth place. If Kimberly wins two straight and Green Bay loses Sunday, Kimberly will be up in third place. This with the fact that the two leaders are having a big battle is bound to raise the locals well up if they come through with a win.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

With the football dope starting to occupy the minds of many valley sport fans, though baseball still has the major place, prospects in the valley conference are interesting. Tracing every sport writer in this vicinity is giving Marinette an edge in the conference race though about four other squads should make the Purple step. What makes the Northern favorites is the fact that they have practically a full team of 1925 regulars back. This team was defeated only once last fall and that by East Green Bay, undefeated champs, on a wet field which always was an advantage to last year's Bay squad. The Purple had one of the best backfields in the conference last year and this returns practically intact.

The line was above the average, but this was hit hard by graduation. However, Johnson had a string of very capable subs, often two, for every job last fall. Add to this the fact that Tom has returned, which was thought improbable for a while, and then state the Purple for the 1926 title. The teams which seem to cry one in the conference with emphasis on the two Bay squads, Manitowish, Sheboygan and Fondy. Fondy and Manitowish have fair chances, while Sheboygan and the Bays look better than average. East Bay lost a number of stars of the title team, but always has a star squad for val-

Joey Muench, star infielder of the Menasha Falls a few years back when they were winning valley loop titles; is joining Harry Rush's allstar Battle Creek, Mich. nine. If you remember, Harry, known as "Speedball," hurried the Falls to a pennant a few years back as their manager. Muench has been one of the shining lights of the Lacrosse Boosters for the last two years, both abate and ahead, playing a stellar game this year in the new Midwest loop which includes Sheboygan, Beloit, Racine and such rocks. The Boosters went on the rocks, a nomenclature speaking leaving some twelve to fourteen good men without jobs.

WANT LUNCHEON CLUBS TO STUDY FIRE PREVENTION

Industrial Commission Urges Careful Study to Remove Hazards

The annual fire loss in American cities is ten times the loss in European cities, according to a letter received by Chief George P. Mc Gillan, of the fire department from the industrial commission of Wisconsin. The people, and not the insurance companies pay for this fire waste in the annual premiums and in increased cost which is purchased, the letter stated. In every city there are numerous business men's and luncheon clubs whose prime object is to promote the welfare of the city and one of the most active committees of such clubs should be one on safety and fire prevention, the commission stated.

Such a committee should study the local conditions and ordinances on safety and fire prevention and as a result of such study should secure the enactment of ordinance requiring the fire departments to make frequent inspections of all buildings and give the fire chief ample power to remove fire hazards.

Other recommendations could be made, such as pointing out how fire hazards could be eliminated, equipping buildings with standard fire doors and windows, and suggesting changes in the interior of buildings to prevent the spread of fire, the letter said. A study of the local fire alarm system could be made and remedies suggested for bettering it.

A committee of this kind, the letter says, can do more for the public good and safety than any other club committee, during the year.

EXPECT 50 BOYS IN "Y" TREASURE HUNT

Fifty boys are expected to gather at the boys' headquarters of the Y. M. C. A. at 130 Friday afternoon to take part in the treasure hunt arranged by Howard Menzner, boys' secretary. Mr. Menzner will lay out the four trails for the hunt Friday morning. All boys in the city from 11 to 17 inclusive are invited to enter the event. The first non-member to complete the hunt will be given a summer membership in the Y. M. C. A. Two prizes will be given to the first two members to finish and return to the Y. M. C. A. building, where entrants will go for a swim at 4 o'clock.

Another overnight hike for the boys' division is planned for Thursday, August 5. It will be led by Howard Menzner.

Married Folks Dance Greenville, Thurs., Night.

"Y" DIRECTORS MEET TO REVIEW BUSINESS

Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet at 130 Friday afternoon in the office Secretary George F. Werner. Business for the current month will be taken up.

The meeting of the budget reviewing committee which was to have been held Tuesday afternoon was postponed on account of the absence of some of the members. It will take place early next week.

BLAINE ATTACKS HIGH TARIFF AS INJURY TO FARM

Governor Tells Audience Farmer Suffers from Protective Wall

Stratford, Wis.—Claims that the tariff rates on butter have aided the Wisconsin dairy industry were characterized by Governor John J. Blaine as "false."

The Republican opponent of Senator Irvine L. Lenroot who aided the raising of the tariff on butter, asserted that tariffs so far as they apply to dairy products or any other product of the farm are a deception. "Tariffs only raise prices in the case of commodities which can be controlled," Governor Blaine maintained. "The fact is that upon the increase of tariff rates on butter, the price to the farmer declined. Even today butter is being produced at a loss."

"The steel trust benefits through the high tariff law because the trust controls its output and dictates the price, and the increase in the cost of steel and iron increases the cost of farm machinery," the governor continued.

"This makes our present tariff law cost the farmer ten dollars for every dollar that he gets out of it. The farmer sells in a low market and buys in a highly protective tariff market. The farmer does not control either his production or dictate the price of his product, as do the tariff beneficiaries. "I favor drastic reduction of the exorbitant duties on manufactures provided in the Fordney-McCumber tariff act, so as to equalize the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, insuring that American producers and labor may be protected, without imposing exorbitant monopoly prices upon every American household."

EQUITY CONSIDERS REORGANIZATION PLAN

Sixty farmers attended the quarterly convention of the Outagamie-co. Equity association at Greenville, Wednesday afternoon. Robert Amundson, county agricultural agent, and Theodore Glaser, president of the association, attended from Appleton. The meeting was given over to making plans for reorganization of the society. A talk on Equity Principles was given by Paul Swainberg, Merrill. The next meeting will be held in the courthouse here on Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Miss Clementine Eich and Miss Maxine Libert of St. Cloud, Minn., are visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Lardner, 729 E. Eldorado-st.
